TAPPI Seminar on Creating New Products for the Pulp and Paper Industry TAPPI Seminar on Creating New Products for the Pulp and Paper Industry, Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry, 1975 TAPPI seminar notes, 1980 Papers and Addresses Presented at the Annual Meeting of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry, 1979 Biotechnology in the Pulp and Paper Industry L. Viikari, R. Lantto, 2002-06-12 This book covers both basic and applied sciences in a rather specified area of pulp and paper manufacture The basic science of lignocellulose enzymology and plant genetics is covered also in many other contexts whereas the application of biotechnology in process and product development is thoroughly reviewed All the latest advances as well as new ideas of the research field are covered This book will serve as an updated and compact information package of biotechnical aspects and the most recent advances of the pulp and paper industry sector Pulp & Paper, 1981 The Evolution of Global Paper Industry 1800--2050 Juha-Antti Lamberg, Jari Ojala, Mirva Peltoniemi, Timo Särkkä, 2012-12-22 This book presents an historical analysis of the global paper industry evolution from a comparative perspective At the centre are 16 producing countries Finland Sweden Norway the USA Germany Canada Japan the UK the Netherlands Italy Spain Portugal Chile Brazil Uruguay and Russia A comparative study of the paper industry evolution can achieve the following important research objectives First we can identify the country specific historical features of paper industry evolution and compare them to the general business trends explicable by existing theoretical knowledge Second we can identify and isolate the factors causing both the rise and fall of industrial populations Third a shared research agenda can produce an intensive analysis of global industry dynamics Finally an extended research period of 250 years can identify what is truly unique in the paper industry evolution and the extent to which it took the same path as other important manufacturing industries The U. S. Paper Industry and Sustainable Production Maureen Smith, 1997-03-12 The problems recyclers face with wastepaper are connected to the issues addressed by forest advocates as well as to the difficulties confronted by those involved with industrial pollution from the paper industry In this richly detailed study Maureen Smith shows how industrial and environmental analysis can be synthesized to clarify these complex problems and produce solutions Smith outlines the basic structural characteristics of the U S pulp and paper industry and its relationship to the larger forest products sector as well as its patterns of domestic and global fiber resource use She then reviews the core technologies employed in virgin pulp production with an emphasis on their environmental impacts the role of technological innovation and the relationships between fiber choices and pollution prevention Building on this base she reveals structural barriers within the industry that have impeded positive change and shows how these barriers are reinforced by the traditional isolation of environmental policy domains The study includes a comparative analysis of how organochlorine pollution from pulp mills has been addressed in the United States Europe and Canada and why the United States has seen the slowest rate of progress an assessment of commodity trade patterns in the industry and how they are linked to resource demand an examination of the momentum building around annual plant fiber use and the diverse interests it reflects and a review of recent developments in paper recycling within the context of historical trends in fiber utilization A case study of the controversial environmental review process of the largest recycled pulp and paper mill ever proposed ties together earlier elements of the book and forms the basis for the conclusions In closing Smith argues convincingly against narrowly focused attempts to fix the problems associated with the industry and offers practical guidance on new frameworks and approaches for industrial restructuring She highlights the need for regional perspectives that integrate environmental social and economic objectives Urban and Industrial Environment series
