Committee on Patents,1936 Interwar London after Dark in British Popular Culture Mara Arts,2022-03-04 This book explores the representation of London s nightlife in popular films and newspapers of the interwar period Through a series of case studies it analyses how British popular media in the 1920s and 1930s displayed the capital after dark It argues that newspapers and films were part of a common culture which capitalized on the transgressive possibilities of the night At the same time both media ensured that those in authority such as the police were always shown to ultimately be in control of the night The first chapter of the book provides an overview of the British film and newspaper industries in the interwar period

Subsequent chapters each explore a specific aspect of London's nightlife. In turn, these chapters consider how films and newspapers of the interwar period depicted women navigating the street at night, the Metropolitan Police's involvement in nightlife, and the capital's newly built and expanded suburbs and public transport network. Finally, the book considers how newspapers and films depicted themselves and one another. Merchant Marine Bulletin, United States. Interstate Commerce Commission, United States. The best-selling Mass Communication: Living in a Media World offers an accessible introduction to mass communication, equipping students with the critical thinking skills to become savvy media consumers. Using a storytelling approach, the text weaves in examples drawn from everyday life, making it easier for students to retain the material and connect it to their own media experiences. Readers are encouraged to consider the media industry from the inside out, and in doing so, discover the many dimensions of mass communication that operate in our society. This newly revised Ninth Edition highlights the aftermath of how the media industry and media consumers have evolved since the global pandemic, closely examining the changing face of media today. Trade Information Bulletin, 1931.
