Situational Awareness for Assistive Technologies Mehul Bhatt, Hans Werner Gsge, 2012 The development of smart assistive technology for personal living and public environments is an opportunity that has been recently recognized by research labs across the world A particular theme that has garnered attention in many countries is the problem of an aging population The combination of a much larger elderly population and the ever increasing cost of providing full time human care for them means that finding practical assisted living solutions for this group is becoming increasingly important Computing is the obvious choice to provide an answer to this growing problem but to have a real impact computer based assistive technologies will need to possess the ability to interact with and interpret the actions and situations of those they are designed to assist The papers in this book explore the diversity of the field of ambient intelligence as well as the wide range of approaches and variety of applications that may prove to be possible Consideration is given to how space action time and other contexts can be represented and reasoned about for use in sensory mapping multi agent interactions assisted living and even emergency responses Many techniques are examined variety represents one of the most important strengths of this area meaning that the weakness of one approach can be offset by the capability of others The book consists of research contributions dealing with the crucial notion of situational awareness within assistive smart systems emerging as an overarching concept An applied computer science character has been retained whilst bringing to the fore research projects where formal knowledge representation and reasoning techniques have been demonstrated to be applicable to areas within the broader field of ambient intelligence and smart environments Human Performance, Workload, and Situational Awareness Measures Handbook, Third Edition - 2-Volume Set Valerie Jane Gawron,2019-12-17

Human Performance, Situation Awareness, and Automation Dennis A. Vincenzi,Mustapha Mouloua,Peter A. Hancock,2005-01-06 In 2000 the Conference on Automation joined forces with a partner group on situation awareness SA The rising complexity of systems demands that one can be aware of a large range of environmental and task based stimulation in order to match what is done with what has to be done Thus SA and automation based interaction fall naturally together and this conference is the second embodiment of this union Moving into the 21st century further diversification of the applications of automation will continue for example the revolution in genetic technology Given the broad nature of this form of human machine interaction it is vital to apply past lessons to map a future for the symbiotic relationship between humans and the artifacts they create It is as part of this ongoing endeavor that the present volume is offered

Vehicle Feedback and Driver Situation Awareness Guy H. Walker, Neville A. Stanton, Paul M. Salmon, 2018-04-17 A potentially troubling aspect of modern vehicle design some would argue is a trend for isolating the driver and reducing vehicle feedback usually in the name of comfort and refinement but increasingly because of automation There is little doubt cars have become more civilised over the years yet despite this the consequences of driver behaviour remain to a large extent anecdotal Readers will have heard such anecdotes for themselves They usually take the form of drivers of a certain age recalling their first cars from the 1970s or 80s in which doing 70 mph really felt like it The question is whether such anecdotes actually reflect a bigger more significant issue that could be better understood Related questions have been explored in other domains such as aviation where the change to fly by wire did indeed bring about some occasionally serious performance issues that were not anticipated Despite some clear parallels automotive systems have been left relatively unstudied The research described in this book aims to explore precisely these issues from a Human Factors perspective This means connecting the topics of vehicle feel vehicle dynamics and automotive engineering with the latest research on driver situation awareness The problem is explored experimentally from a variety of theoretical viewpoints but the outcomes are consistently practical Here we have a promising new avenue along which the
