Jay Harold Ellens

The Biology Of God A Scientists Study Of Man The Religious Animal:

The Biology of God Sir Alister Hardy, 1977 The Biology of God Sir Alister Clavering Hardy, 1975 A true biology encompassing the whole of life should not ignore man's religious experience which when better understood may become as readily acknowledged in the biological system as human affectionate behaviour. Though a convinced Darwinian, Sir Alister Hardy stresses the urgency of appeasing the frustrated desires of our spiritually bereft civilization and is confident that a reconciliation of religion and the doctrine of natural selection can be effected. Beginning with evolutionary behaviour, he examines what Wallace, Polanyi, Waddington and Piaget have contributed to our knowledge of man's emergent mental life in the evolutionary continuum. He elucidates the theory confirmed by animal behaviour studies that biological similarities exist between man's attitude towards God and the association of dogs with man. If the idea of a biology of God is to be extended toward a more scientific natural theology, man's experience of what is divine or transcendental must be systematically studied. For this very purpose, Sir Alister Hardy has launched a research unit at Manchester College, Oxford. Into his powerful book, he has incorporated the developments of this unit's first burgeoning years, recording its growth into a pioneer field of biological and theological research. Publisher: SCM Studyguide to Religious and Spiritual Experience, Jeff Astley, 2020-02-28. This Studyguide provides a succinct and lucid introduction to the subject for those studying and teaching religion at both undergraduate and GCE AS/A level. By exploring the key areas of both the empirical and theoretical study of religious and spiritual experience, the Studyguide will serve as an accessible and nonpartisan guide to enable its readers to explore the range of challenging data, debates, approaches and issues that relate to the study of this widespread and significant phenomenon.

God, Science, and Humility Robert Hermann, 1998-07-01. Editor Robert Herrmann has collected the opinions of ten scientists, all leaders in their fields, who have considered the relevance of their science to theology. The contributors bring a variety of religious experiences to the consideration of humility theology, a humble approach to our truth-seeking about God. As a physicist, Russell Stannard provides an overview of humility theology in which truth is approached in an experimental, hypothetical mode as is done in the sciences. Physicist and theologian Robert Russell focuses on the interaction between cosmology and theology. Charles Harper writes of the opportunity for a tremendous flowering of planetary science through a joint partnership between science and religion. Owen Gingerich, historian of science, looks at the other side of humility theology: the possibility that we can actually arrive at unreasonable expectations about the existence and nature of extraterrestrial intelligence. Francisco Ayala begins with the surprising contrast between the very brief period of human evolution and its remarkable and utterly unique end product, homo sapiens. Psychologist David Myers points out that intuition can be a powerful faculty, but there are many limitations to this inner knowing. Chemist Giuseppe Del Re writes an interesting view of the history of the development of chemistry as a discipline. Herbert Benson and Patricia Myers analyze the components of mind-body medicine that relate to the rubric of self-care, including relaxation procedures.

nutrition exercise stress management and faith David and Susan Larson introduce the reader to a new field of medical science that focuses on the impact of spiritual values on patients health Fraser Watts looks at artificial intelligence research The discussion included in this book will significantly aid scholars and general readers in the search for greater understanding of the relationship between science and religion Contributors include Russell Stannard Robert John Russell Charles L Harper Jr Owen Gingerich Francisco J Ayala David G Myers Giuseppe Del Re Herbert Benson Patricia Myers David B Larson Susan S Larson and Fraser Watts The Humanities Frank Whaling,2019-10-08 No detailed description available for The Humanities The Evangelical Counter-Enlightenment William R. narrative of the author's personal spiritual journey which is marked by numerous constructive life changing paranormal experiences that can only be accounted for as special initiations of the divine spirit providing intimations and illuminations. These events are set in the context of the rich literature available which reports similar events in the lives of many other persons under both normal and extreme circumstances. The author, a clinical psychologist and pastoral theologian, interprets this broad panoply of psycho-spiritual data in terms of psychological science and biblical perspectives. He concludes that the divine spirit is pervasive throughout the universe and present in all the dynamics of life forms constantly endeavoring to communicate with humans. Thus the paranormal may well be more normal than the normal human experience and the veil between time and eternity, between the mundane and transcendent worlds and between life and the life to come is apparently more permeable in both directions than we suppose.

The Liberation of Life Charles Birch, John B. Cobb, 1985-01-10. This book is about the liberation of the concept of life from the bondage fashioned by the interpreters of life ever since biology began and about the liberation of the life of humans and non-humans alike from the bondage of social structures and behaviour which now threatens the fullness of life's possibilities if not survival itself. It falls into a tradition of writings about human problems from a perspective informed by biology. It rejects the mechanistic model of life dominant in the Western world and develops an alternative ecological model which is applicable to the life of the cell and the life of the human community. For the first time it brings together in one work the insights of modern biology with those of a modern holistic philosophy and a liberal theology in a way which challenges conventional approaches to science, agriculture, sociology, politics, economics, development and liberation movements.
