Exiled Scholars in Western Academia: Refugees or Intellectuals? Alfred Babo, Sayed Hassan Akhlaq, 2025-04-09

This volume focuses on the experiences of refugee scholars in Western academia through first hand narratives that move between dominant humanitarianism and the academic establishment. It provides an intellectual view of this humanitarian industry from a refugee perspective alongside stories of the refugee scholars' contribution to the production of knowledge in the West. Contributors discuss their unique experiences and reflect on the changing nature of knowledge production, transfer and exchange in a world increasingly affected by forced migration. Such reflections are not new. However, in this volume, they explore how personal life difficulties and/or successes mixed with emotional distress and cultural adjustments could be framed into a scholarly analysis of academia in exile. In today's globalized world, the term refugee often evokes both sympathy and criticism, leaving refugee scholars in Western universities to ponder the ambivalent nature of their identity. This duality of identity creates new opportunities for rethinking concepts such as humanitarianism, indigenization, asylum, diversity, equity and integration, scholar activism, and the transnational production of knowledge in the universities of the twenty-first century. Assembling scholars from around the world working in political sciences, international studies, anthropology, law, philosophy and the humanities, this volume addresses both the geopolitical predicaments and the intellectual contributions of exiled academics in our troubled times.

A 150 years' celebration of Darwin's book on human evolution and sexual selection: Its legacy and future prospects Marco Antonio Correa Varela, Jaroslava Varela Valentova, Catherine Salmon, Barnaby James Wyld Dixon, Marina Butovskaya, Anabela Pinto Pinto, Boguslaw Pawlowski, Carol Cronin

Refugees and Knowledge Production Magdalena Kmak, Heta Björklund, 2022-02-13

Building on research within the fields of exile studies and critical migration studies and drawing links between historical and contemporary refugee scholarship, this volume challenges the bias of methodological nationalism and Eurocentrism in discussing the multifaceted forms of knowledge emerging in the context of migration and mobility. With critical attention to the meaning, production and scope of refugee scholarship generated at the institutions of higher education, it also focuses on refugee knowledge produced outside academia and scrutinizes the conditions according to which it is validated or silenced. Presenting studies of historical refuge and exile together with the experiences of contemporary refugee scholars, this book will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in forced migration, refugee studies, the sociology of knowledge and the phenomenon of insider knowledge and research methods and methodology. Toward Engaged Anthropology Sam Beck, Carl A. Maida, 2013-07-01 By working with underserved communities anthropologists may play a larger role in democratizing society The growth of disparities challenges anthropology to be used for social justice This engaged stance moves the application of anthropological theory methods and practice toward action and activism However this engagement also moves anthropologists away from traditional roles of observation toward participatory roles that become increasingly involved with those communities or social groupings being studied The chapters in this book suggest the roles anthropologists are able to play to bring us closer to a public anthropology characterized as engagement

Child Psychology Robin Harwood, Scott A. Miller, Ross Vasta, 2008-01-03 This new fifth edition captures the excitement and relevance of child psychology at the beginning of the 21st century a theme that is exemplified in the text's new subtitle Child Development in a Changing Society In addition to extensive research coverage each chapter includes an additional section that relates the chapter subject to social and cultural contexts or implications of research for social policy public practice or societal change This new edition places children child development and the contexts in which development occurs at the center of the discourse Thus this edition has a strong balance of theory research and real world application
