Blacksmith: Artisan Within the Early Community Vernon S. Gunnion, 2009-05 It is somewhat difficult to imagine the need for and reliance on the blacksmith by the rural community of 200 years past The smith combined the work of the welding shop the service station and the hardware store in one man Every community however small had need of one and as a result there were greater numbers of smiths than of any other craftsmen during the 18th and 19th cent This is the catalog of a special exhibition showing tools and implements collected by Henry and George Landis late in the 19th century They gave a priority to the tools and products of early craftsmen especially the blacksmith The catalog includes an introduction to the work and importance of blacksmiths Includes over 100 photos Colonial Wrought Iron Don Plummer, 1999 Colonial Wrought Iron is a photographic survey of early wrought iron work in America with 506 photographs from the Sorber Collection The colonial period in America was centered around the blacksmith who was the maker and creator of these items The informational text explains the characteristics and the conditions of the period in which the iron was forged Colonial Wrought Iron is an invaluable resource tool for the blacksmith involved making reproduction hardware and related items as well as an inspiration for merging form and function In this book you will find the commonplace and the ornate but they all reflect the hand of fine craftsmanship The work displayed in Colonial Wrought Iron is from the collection of Jim Sorber Jim now in his eighties has been an avid collector for 70 years This collection is a result of a life steeped in an enduring appreciation for the skills of his ancestors Even as a child he was interested in their hand tools and the wonderful things they made That interest soon grew into a passion A unique aspect of Jims collection is that it reflects a certain ethnic influence Much of his collecting has been done near his home in the counties of Berks Chester Lancaster Lebanon Lehigh Montgomery and Schuylkill This area has been settled by German immigrants since the mid to late 17th century Jims collection many pieces of which are signed and dated reflects an iron chronicle of the Pennsylvania Dutch migration westward from the Philadelphia area The blacksmith artisan within the early community.
