The Man-Not Tommy J. Curry, 2017-07 The Before Columbus Foundation 2018 Winner of the AMERICAN BOOK AWARD Tommy J Curry's provocative book The Man Not is a justification for Black Male Studies. He posits that we should conceptualize the Black male as a victim oppressed by his sex. The Man Not therefore is a corrective of sorts offering a concept of Black males that could challenge the existing accounts of Black men and boys desiring the power of white men who oppress them that has been proliferated throughout academic research across disciplines. Curry argues that Black men struggle with death and suicide as well as abuse and rape and their gendered existence deserves study and theorization. This book offers intellectual, historical, sociological, and psychological evidence that the analysis of patriarchy offered by mainstream feminism, including Black feminism, does not yet fully understand the role that homoeroticism, sexual violence, and vulnerability play in the deaths and lives of Black males. Curry challenges how we think of and perceive the conditions that actually affect all Black males.

People were on the move more than six million over a period of 50 or 60 years. Four children the oldest just 12 years old were on a train heading north. They had what looked like a shoe box with them that probably held their food and several small, rather old and worn looking suitcases. They were quiet looking out the window and occasionally glancing at each other as if to say what are we doing here. What was the reason for this journey? Where were they going? Where were their parents? How would this journey affect their lives, particularly the life of the older boy?

In this case from early in Stewart Hoag's career, the newly successful writer revisits his hometown to investigate the murder of a beloved librarian. Stewart Hoag always swore that he would never return to Oakmont, Connecticut, the small mill town where his family lived for generations. He certainly has no desire to interrupt his high life as the newest great American novelist to revisit the town that hates his family and will only bring back memories of his unhappy childhood. But when his childhood sweetheart phones to say that her mother, Mary McKenna, the librarian who inspired Hoag's dream to be a writer, has died, Hoag knows he has to return for her funeral. Especially when Maggie adds that her mother didn't die of natural causes. Who would want to murder a beloved mill town librarian? Determined to pay his respects to one of the few people in his hometown he truly cared for, Hoag hops in his Jaguar and heads to Oakmont with his new girlfriend, Merilee, and even newer basset hound puppy, Lulu, in tow. The town where his family's brass mill once thrived is now a toxic, lead-poisoned ghost town filled with illegal drugs, broken families, violence, bitterness, and resentment. Hoag is surprised to discover former classmate and bullying target Pete Schlosski has become the State Police Resident Trooper. But while Pete seems to have forgiven his past tormentors he doesn't have any ideas as to which of them might be a killer Hoagy on the other hand has learned plenty about the art of investigation from hours spent in the library and his four month old puppy shows a surprising knack for tracking down clues Readers will be delighted to return to where it all began and experience Lulu's very first case in this charming installment of the Edgar Award nominated Stewart Hoag series Sexuality and the Sacred James B.
