The Making Of The Christian Church:

The Making of the Christian Church Richard F. Zehnle, 1969 Heroes and Heretics Abound Dave G.

Roberts, 2017-03-29 I know what you are probably thinking History is boring Was I right I have heard it a million times I think history can be fascinating particularly Church history Why do I think that Because how can anything with heroes and heretics be boring More than that the story of the Christian Church is your story Yes You dear reader Your story regardless of where you are from and who you are Your story regardless of your system of belief or non belief Perhaps you know very little of it No worries Before Jesus Christ ascended back to heaven he commanded his 11 followers to go and tell others about Him and His work They did and we stand here today as a product of their obedience But how did the Church get here today Together we explore her birth growth and development Development to the point where she is worldwide and has at least 2 billion people who identify as a Christian of one kind or another Development of the practises and theology of the Church All the while striving to avoid the mistakes and embrace the joys Who was the near sighted man called the Golden Mouth Who said If there is no laughter in heaven I don t want to go there Who was probably the first person to expound what we call Grace Which of the ancient heresies could well be found in some churches today We answer those questions and more in this journey through time We also interact with some people of today who tell about their relationship with the Church Finally we also interact with some of the great minds of Church history looking at some of the prayers of the Church As the Church of today and tomorrow we can all learn something from this exciting story This book is written with you in mind Of course it is written chiefly from an English speaking Protestant European perspective as that is my background Come on in A

Christian Churches and Nigeria's Political Economy of Oil and Conflict Nkem Emerald Osuigwe,2014-09-18 The received account on African evangelical Christianity regarding social witness in a section of Western scholarship is that it is anti development and a political Such an account heavily draws from an instrumentalist and functionalist assessment of such Christianity without recourse to its emic perspective Using the case study method this book presents an ethnographic examination of this functionalist reading by investigating describing and analysing evangelical Christian theological and socio political consciousness within the context of oil and conflict in Nigeria's Niger Delta region Adopting approaches from practical theology congregational studies and anthropology of religion the author challenges such a reading using data gathered from three congregations in the region His discourse revolves around answers to the following four critical questions What are the underlying theological issues and beliefs of Nigerian evangelical Christians within the context of oil and conflict What is their prevalent praxis within the context of Nigeria's political economy of oil and conflict How accurate is the received account that African evangelical and fundamentalist Christianity lacks social responsibility and is a political and anti development What would a contextual political theology for Nigeria's political economy of oil look like The theological issues are varied and the prevalent praxis nuanced which then serves as a veritable critique of the claim that African evangelical Christianity lacks social responsibility due to its preoccupation with soul winning Whereas such Christianity places much emphasis on the winning of souls as an expression of its spirituality it is neither oblivious nor indifferent to its socio political milieu Rather it sees such spirituality as a form of political praxis Some of the trajectories of the spirituality include a theology of conversion a theology of prayer and an ethics of crude oil with Total Freedom as the nomenclature for the specific theological perspective offered for Nigeria's political economy of oil While locating this theological perspective within the taxonomy of Liberation Theology the affinity and dissonance between the two are
