Romance and the Erotics of Property Jan Cohn, 1988 Romance and the Erotics of Property examines contemporary popular romance from a number of different points of view probing for codes and subtexts that sometimes exploit and sometimes contradict its surface tale of romantic attraction frustration longing and fulfillment Cohn argues that a full understanding of the contemporary romance requires an investigation of its literary and historical sources and analogues Three principal sources are examined in the context of women's history in bourgeois society Pride and Prejudice Jane Eyre and Gone With the Wind demonstrate the development of romance fiction's themes yet in all three the central love story is complicated by issues of property the sign of male power Jan Cohn further considers the development of the genre in the fictions of Harriet Lewis and May Agnes Fleming prolific and popular American romance writers of the late nineteenth century who developed the role of the villain thereby bringing into focus the sexual and economic struggles faced by the heroine Romance and the Erotics of Property sets romance fiction against a historic and literary background arguing that contemporary romance disguises as tales of love the subversive fantasies of female appropriation and male property and power

What Women Want--What Men Want John Marshall Townsend,1998-04-23 What Women Want What Men Want offers compelling new evidence about the real reasons behind men s and women s differing sexual psychologies and sheds new light on what men and women look for in a mate the predicament of marriage in the modern world the relation between sex and emotion and many other hotly debated questions John Townsend draws on 2000 questionnaires and extensive quotations from 200 intimate interviews to show how deep seated desires and emotions guide our actions in dating sexual relationships and marriage Townsend argues against the politically correct belief that differences in sexual behavior are culturally constructed and shows that these differences are universal and rooted in our evolutionary past In a fascinating series of experiments men and women were asked to indicate preferences for potential mates based on their attractiveness and apparent economic status Women preferred expensively dressed men to more attractive but apparently less successful men and men chose more attractive women regardless of their professional status Townsend also found that men are inclined to value casual sexual relations whereas women cannot easily separate sexual relations from the need for emotional attachment and economic security Lucidly and accessibly written What Women Want What Men Want brings new clarity to one of the most intractable debates of our time *D.
