Environment, Society and Natural Resource Management Geoffrey Lawrence, Vaughan Higgins, Stewart Lockie, 2001 As greater significance is placed on the relationship between people and their environment it is increasingly acknowledged that few environmental problems can be solved without considering the social context in which they arise But what does it mean to incorporate the social and what types of social sciences are needed This incisive book critically reviews the theoretical perspectives that underlie social scientific contributions to natural resource management and argues for both a greater social science presence and for conceptual and methodological clarity within the social sciences themselves The expert contributors explore how new concepts and approaches can contribute positively to natural resource management They demonstrate how the social sciences can be used as a vehicle to highlight social concerns as well as to foster greater participation co operation and integration among community members natural resource managers and researchers Through detailed case studies from Australasia and the Americas the authors illustrate how different social science perspectives can be utilised The range and variety of views provide a basis for the evaluation of various and often competing disciplinary paradigms within the social sciences This book will undoubtedly contribute to a more sophisticated debate about the place of the social in environmental research It will prove to be of great worth to students and researchers of environmental and social issues to those involved in environmental decision making and community planning as well as environmental policymakers and natural resource managers

Proceedings of the 1996 Northeastern Recreation Research Symposium Walter F. Kuentzel, 1997

Integrating Social Science and Ecosystem Management Linda Caldwell, Shela Mou, 1999-02 Proceedings of the Conference on Integrating Social Sciences Ecosystem Management held in 1995 The overall purpose was to improve understanding integration research applications of the human dimension of ecosystem management The goals were to 1 discuss the state of knowledge of social sciences relevant to ecosystem management 2 discuss how to integrate this knowledge with ecosystem management along with the physical biological sciences 3 develop a strategy to effectively integrate social sciences with ecosystem management 4 identify a research agenda to further knowledge in the area Illustrated Proceedings of the 1993 Northeastern Recreation Research Symposium Gail A. Vander Stoep,1993 Forty Years of Hydrometeorological Data from the Fernow Experimental Forest, West Virginia ,1994 General Technical Report NE ,1980 Adapting Social Science to the Changing Focus of International Agricultural Research Simeon Ehui,John K. Lynam,I. Okike,2004-01-01 Social Science to Improve Fuels Management Robert L. Ryan,2005 A series of syntheses were commissioned by the USDA Forest Service to aid in fuels mitigation project planning This synthesis focuses on research addressing aesthetic considerations of fuels management A general finding is that fuels management activities can contribute to the visual quality of a landscape Topics covered in the synthesis include research findings on visual preferences in forested ecosystems strategies for maintaining or improving visual quality through fuels management and the planning implementation and monitoring of resource management to improve visual quality Multisystemic Resilience Michael Ungar,2021 Multisystemic Resilience brings together in one volume a wide range of resilience scholars who have been wrestling with how to explain processes of recovery adaptation and transformation in contexts of change and adversity Together this collection shows that considering the resilience of multiple systems at once is instrumental to understanding the processes of change and sustainability Forest Certification Daniel J Vogt,Bruce C Larson,John C Gordon,Anna Fanzeres,1999-11-29 Forest Certification examines the historical roots of forest certification the factors that guide the development of protocols the players involved the factors determining the customers to be certified and the benefits of certification It covers terminology and issues that direct the structure of standards the similarities between indicators of different human disturbances within the ecosystem landscape and certification standards It documents the roles of human values in the development of assessment protocols and demonstrates how elements should be used to produce non value based standards Linking Social and Ecological Systems Fikret Berkes,Carl Folke,Johan Colding,2000-04-13 It is usually the case that scientists examine either ecological systems or social systems yet the need for an interdisciplinary approach to the problems of environmental management and sustainable development is becoming increasingly obvious Developed under the auspices of the Beijer Institute in Stockholm this new book analyses social and ecological linkages in selected ecosystems using an international and interdisciplinary case study approach The chapters provide detailed information on a variety of management practices for dealing with environmental change Taken as a whole the book will contribute to the greater understanding of essential social responses to changes in ecosystems including the generation accumulation and transmission of ecological knowledge structure and dynamics of institutions and the cultural values underlying these responses A set of new or rediscovered principles for sustainable ecosystem management is also presented Linking Social and Ecological Systems will be of value to natural and social scientists interested in sustainability General Technical Report PNW-GTR ,2002 Library and Information Studies for Arctic Social Sciences and Humanities Spencer Acadia,Marthe Tolnes Fjellestad,2020-11-26 Library and

Information Studies for Arctic Social Sciences and Humanities serves as a key interdisciplinary title that links the social sciences and humanities with current issues trends and projects in library archival and information sciences within shared Arctic frameworks and geographies Including contributions from professionals and academics working across and on the Arctic the book presents recent research theoretical inquiry and applied professional endeavours at academic and public libraries as well as archives museums government institutions and other organisations Focusing on efforts that further Arctic knowledge and research papers present local regional and institutional case studies to conceptually and empirically describe real life research in which the authors are engaged Topics covered include the complexities of developing and managing multilingual resources working in geographically isolated areas curating combinations of local regional national and international content collections and understanding historical and contemporary colonial industrial influences in indigenous knowledge Library and Information Studies for Arctic Social Sciences and Humanities will be essential reading for academics researchers and students working the fields of library archival and information or data science as well as those working in the humanities and social sciences more generally It should also be of great interest to librarians archivists curators and information or data professionals around the globe

Redefining Diversity and Dynamics of Natural Resources Management in Asia, Volume 1 Ganesh Shivakoti,Ujjwal Pradhan,Helmi Helmi,2016-09-01 Redefining Diversity and Dynamics of Natural Resources Management in Asia Volumes 1 4 brings together scientific research and policy issues across various topographical area in Asia to provide a comprehensive overview of the issues facing the region Sustainable Natural Resources Management in Dynamic Southeast Asia Volume 1 pulls together regional experts in the field to look specifically at sustainability issues across the region to see what has been implemented what the impacts have been and what other options are available In the race to be a developed region many Southeast Asian countries have foregone natural resources through haphazard use As a result the people are faced with numerous environmental challenges particularly deforestation and forest degradation biodiversity loss and ecosystem degradation reduction in soil quality and decreases in the quantity of available water Community based forest management is the involvement of local communities in the protection conservation and management of public forests to prevent degradation through sustainable practices while still responding to the basic social and economic needs of local populations When the people who depend on forest resources for their livelihoods are jointly responsible for managing and protecting them they tend to do so in a more sustainable manner by focusing on the long term benefits rather than the immediate short term gains However when tenure rights are weak unclear or insecure or offer limited benefits people are incited in extracting more immediate benefits resulting in suboptimal forest management and the reduction of carbon stocks Features case studies that cover issues such as rising levels of deforestation forest degradation regional food security ecosystem degradation biodiversity loss conflicts over natural resource use water management issues and impacts on local communities Includes contributions from local researchers who are dealing with these issues first hand and on a daily basis Includes a comparative review on REDD implementation in different communities Focuses on sustainability issues across the region
