The Tetons Fritiof Fryxell, Grand Teton National Park Kendra Leah Fuller, Shannon Sullivan, Jackson Hole Historical Society, 2014-06-30. The majestic beauty of Grand Teton National Park has moved people throughout time. Native Americans believed in the spiritual power of the towering mountain peaks and journeyed there to gain special powers. Early fur traders, who had just crossed less ominous mountain ranges, viewed with trepidation the massive obstacle that loomed before them on their passage to the Pacific Northwest. In others, the Tetons ignited vision and passion: a vision to preserve for all generations to come and a passion to protect the independent way of life known by the first settlers of this western frontier. The formation of Grand Teton National Park spanned the course of nearly 70 years. Although there were many people who shared the struggle before them, it was not until Stephen Mather and Horace M. Albright took up the fight in 1915 that steps towards success were taken. Albright's tenacity and ability to convey his vision to philanthropist John D. Rockefeller Jr. set in motion a very long journey that culminated with President Harry S. Truman signing today's Grand Teton National Park into existence on September 13, 1950. Shine Not in Reflected Glory - The Untold Story of Grand Teton National Park N. Wayne Johnson, 2016-07-25. This book provides a detailed examination of the fifty-two years of controversy that culminated in the creation of Grand Teton National Park. Beginning with the U.S. Department of War's recommended legislation to add the valley of Jackson Hole, Wyoming, into Yellowstone National Park in 1898, this narrative documents the arguments and attitudes of opposing sides in the five-decade-long struggle to provide protection for the mountains, glacial lakes, and foreground in the northern portion of the valley. Included in this volume are nearly 500 photographs depicting concurrent settlement of the valley and the individuals who participated in these controversies. Grand Teton National Park Christina
