Alison Calder, Robert Wardhaugh

That Art Of Difference Documentary Collage And English Canadian Writing:

History, Literature and the Writing of the Canadian Prairies Alison Calder, Robert Wardhaugh, 2005-05-16 The Canadian Prairie has long been represented as a timeless and unchanging location defined by settlement and landscape Now a new generation of writers and historians challenge that perception and argue instead that it is a region with an evolving culture and history In a collection of ten essays History Literature and the Writing of the Canadian Prairies explores a more contemporary prairie identity and reconfigures the prairie as a construct that is non linear and diverse responding to the impact of geographical historical and political currents These writers explore the connections between document and imagination between history and culture and between geography and time The subjects of the essays range widely the non linear structure of Carol Shield s The Stone Diaries the impact of Aberhart s Social Credit Marshall McLuhan and Mesopotamian myth on Robert Kroetsch s prairie postmodernism the role of document in long prairie poems the connection between cultural tourism and heritage the theme of regeneration in Margaret Laurence s Manawaka writing the influence of imagination on geography in Thomas Wharton s Icefields and the effects on an alpine climber of pre WWII ideological concepts of time and individualism

That Art of Difference Manina Jones, 1993 Explores a new genre of fiction drama and poetry that self consciously takes nonfiction documents such as photographs advertisements newspapers and historical manuscripts into the literary text Examining a number of recent Canadian writers shows how they recontextualize the documents in order to question the historical record and to show their

Bolder Flights Frank Tierney, Angela Arnold Robbeson, 1999-01-07 A growing number of literary historians and critics now recognize the contemporary long poem as a distinctively Canadian genre This collection of essays leads the reader to a deeper understanding of Canadian literary cultures in terms of their local intimacies and idiosyncrasies as well as in their national contexts Published in English

From Cohen to Carson Ian Rae, 2008-03-26 Detailed case studies of novels by Leonard Cohen Michael Ondaatje George Bowering Daphne Marlatt and Anne Carson as well as sections on A M Klein and Anne Michaels reveal how these authors framed their early novels according to formal precedents established in their poetry In tracking the authors shift from lyric to long poem to novel Rae also investigates their experiments with non literary art forms photography painting film The authors discussed combine disparate genres and media to alter notions of narrative coherence in the novel and engage the diverse but fragmented cultural histories of Canadian society

Speaking in the Past Tense Herb Wyile, 2009-10-22 Speaking in the Past Tense participates in an expanding critical dialogue on the writing of historical fiction providing a series of reflections on the process from the perspective of those souls intrepid enough to step onto what is practically by definition contested territory Herb Wyile from the Introduction The extermination of the Beothuk the exploration of the Arctic the experiences of soldiers in the trenches during World War I the foibles of Canada s longest serving prime minister the Ojibway sniper who is credited with 378 wartime kills these are just some of the people and events discussed in these candid and wide ranging interviews with eleven authors whose novels are based on events in Canadian history. These sometimes startling conversations take the reader behind the scenes of the novels and into the minds of their authors. Through them we explore the writers' motives for writing, the challenges they faced in gathering information and presenting it in fictional form, the sometimes hostile reaction they faced after publication, and perhaps most interestingly, the stories that didn't make it into their novels. Speaking in the Past Tense provides fascinating insights into the construction of national historical narratives and myths, both those familiar to us and those that are still being written. Reader's Guide to Literature in English Mark Hawkins-Dady, 2012-12-06. Reader's Guide to Literature in English provides expert guidance to and critical analysis of the vast number of books available within the subject of English literature from Anglo-Saxon times to the current American, British, and Commonwealth scene. It is designed to help students, teachers, and librarians choose the most appropriate books for research and study.

National Plots Andrea Cabajsky, Brett Josef Grubisic, 2010-10-04. Fiction that reconsiders challenges, reshapes, and/or upholds national narratives of history has long been an integral aspect of Canadian literature. Works by writers of historical fiction from early practitioners such as John Richardson to contemporary figures such as Alice Munro and George Elliott Clarke propose new views and understandings of Canadian history and individual relationships to it. Critical evaluation of these works sheds light on the complexity of these depictions. The contributors in National Plots: Historical Fiction and Changing Ideas of Canada critically examine texts with subject matter ranging from George Vancouver's west coast explorations to the eradication of the Beothuk in Newfoundland. Reflecting diverse methodologies and theoretical approaches, the essays seek to explicate depictions of the historical in individual texts and to explore larger questions relating to historical fiction as a genre with complex and divergent political motivations and goals. Although the topics of the essays vary widely, as a whole, the collection raises and answers questions about the significance of the roles historical fiction has played within Canadian culture for nearly two centuries.

Detective Agency Priscilla L. Walton, Manina Jones, 1999-05-31. Since the late 1970s, a subgenre of crime fiction written by women and featuring a professional woman investigator has exploded on the popular fiction market. Priscilla L. Walton and Manina Jones focus on this recent proliferation of women writers of detective fiction, providing the first book-length study of the historical and societal changes that fueled this popularity, along with insightful and entertaining readings of the texts themselves. Walton and Jones place the genre within its aesthetic, social, and economic contexts, reading it as an index of cultural beliefs. Addressing the ways that Sara Paretsky, Sue Grafton, Marcia Muller, and others work through the conventions of the hard-boiled genre made popular by writers such as Dashiell Hammett, Raymond Chandler, and Mickey Spillane, the authors show how the male hard-boiled tradition has been challenged and transformed. Issues of child spousal and sexual abuse are more likely to surface in women's detective novels; the authors show, and female sleuths face many of the same dilemmas as those who read about them. Everyday problems with relationships, parenting, and money. Detective Agency also integrates interviews with authors and publishers reader surveys publication data and analysis of internet discussion groups to present a fascinating picture of the industry of women s detective fiction Authors of these works are powerful players in the publishing system as well as agents of cultural intervention Walton and Jones claim They conclude by examining the rise of female detectives in television and film Depression Glass Monique Vescia,2014-02-04 First Published in 2006 This is part of the literary criticism and cutlural theory collection Situated within the larger narrative of the symbiosis between photography and modern poetry in America during the 1930s each text examined by the author is a discrete object constituting a series of empirical statements expressing certain empirical truths particular to its time and place Not Needing all the Words Annick Hillger,2006-05-26 Not Needing all the Words looks at Ondaatje s work in relation to the post Cartesian idea of the modern subject as split and alienated Highlighting the distinction between aesthesis and logic Hillger traces the ways in which Ondaatje responds to the continuing process of silencing art in the modern age of reason
