Social Studies Educators Handbook Community Involvement:

The Educator's Handbook for Teaching with Primary Sources Scott M. Waring, 2023 Educators across subject areas are striving to integrate primary sources into their pedagogy and teaching Yet despite their importance to authentic disciplined inquiry the implementation of primary source activities in the pre K 12 classroom has been limited This lack of utilization can largely be attributed to the perception that these activities are too complex to design implement and grade Many teachers also feel that primary source analysis and the construction of evidence based narratives is too difficult for students to complete in the traditional classroom Waring argues that this is not the case and with this handbook provides teacher candidates and inservice teachers with detailed and specific perspectives activities approaches and resources to help them effectively and authentically use primary sources in their classrooms Book Features Introduces teaching with primary sources including detailed examples of authentic and tested instructional ideas and approaches Designed to meet the needs of classroom teachers and teacher candidates in social studies English and language arts mathematics science and other fields Offers dozens of primary sources and links to resources throughout the book Aligns to national standards frameworks and the C3 framework for social studies Can be used to meet the needs of emerging English learners and students with special needs Focuses on ways in which educators are utilizing a variety of emerging technologies to engage students in deeper and more authentic ways of learning Community-University Engagement: A Process for Building Democratic Communities Tami L. Moore, 2014-04-29 As the emphasis on economic development through community university engagement intensifies educators and policy makers must learn to think differently about the engagement process This is particularly true when a narrowly defined group of leaders sets the engagement agenda and those who are traditionally underrepresented continue to be marginalized in the conversations about their own futures Emphasizing the importance of community as a context for engagement and building strong relationships over time Moore calls on institutional leaders to intentionally facilitate broad participation by all members of a community in discussions about how and in what direction the community will develop This is the second issue of the 40th volume of the Josse Bass series ASHE Higher Education Report Each monograph is the definitive analysis of a tough higher education issue based on thorough research of pertinent literature and institutional experiences Topics are identified by a national survey Noted practitioners and scholars are then commissioned to write the reports with experts providing critical reviews of each manuscript before publication

Faculty Service-Learning Guidebook Christine M. Cress, Stephanie T. Stokamer, Thomas J. Van Cleave, Joyce P. Kaufman, 2023-07-03 This is a practical guide to designing teaching and coordinating service learning courses and for developing reciprocal community partnerships and community based research through a lens of equity that addresses the endemic racial social economic and environmental disparities across society The text provides a comprehensive framework for developing both in person and on line service learning with a chapter on virtual delivery of courses that integrates the principles and practices described throughout the book The authors uniquely integrate the how to of conducting service learning with the theoretical foundations to enact effective equitable and inclusive community engagement Given this moment of enormous social inequality and divisiveness the authors offer a new definition and set of educational principles that they characterize as Equity Centered Community Engagement Excellence These principles serve to guide academic and community engagement that is democratic recognizes the voice and expertise of community partners addresses the power imbalances between communities and academic institutions and develops an educational experience that is potentially transformative and promotes civic responsibility Informed by the literature of critical service learning critical race theory intercultural communication theory and social constructivism this book attempts to deconstruct the assumption of the preeminence of academic knowledge to reconstruct a new operational paradigm of equity centeredness that validates community capacity to guide faculty in their redesign of service learning curriculum activities collaborations and scholarship It is based on the principles of Student Agency demonstrated as enhanced skills knowledge and motivation Community Efficacy recognition of community assets and capacity building Scholarly Advocacy leveraging evidence based research based for equity centered learning serving and social justice The authors offer examples of syllabi lessons and assignments reflection questions evaluation rubrics as well as an array of teaching tips that illustrate strategies for use in the classroom and in the field The book is addressed to faculty embarking on service learning and to seasoned scholar practitioners looking for innovative ideas as well as to campus administrators who coordinate community outreach or college student volunteer services offering guidance on leveraging resources and fiscal support from external stakeholders It is also designed to serve as a resource for professional development workshops and faculty scholar learning communities It offers a rich compendium of ideas and examples from which faculty and practitioners can select exercises and elements to incorporate or adapt for their courses whether designing short term engagements or extended service learning programs

Practices, Perceptions and Prospects for Climate Change Education in Africa Marcellus Forh Mbah, Petra Molthan-Hill, Ernest L. Molua, 2025-04-08 This open access book presents peer reviewed chapters that introduce the subject of climate change within formal and informal sectors of education in Africa as key to building the capacity of current and future generations to address the most pressing global issue An insight into existing practices perceptions and prospects for climate change education in Africa can bring to light relevant frameworks that can support a climate resilient future in the continent Among others the book contends that there is a need to rethink current practices of climate change education in the continent by optimizing Indigenous knowledge systems and context relevant pedagogies as important strategies Governments civil society and other stakeholders in Africa can draw on the rich insights captured in this book as they consider feasible approaches to resolve the current climate crisis

The Cumulative Book Index, 1922 Research in Education, 1970-12 Rethinking Student Transitions Dallin George

Young, Bryce D. Bunting, 2024-07-08 Rethinking Student Transitions How Community Participation and Becoming Can Help Higher Education Deliver on its Promise presents a reimagined theory of student transitions in college The authors contend that while previous theorizations have helped move the practice of supporting student success forward through the latter half of the twentieth century earlier conceptualizations and models have led to an inconsistent and incomplete picture of students experiences in transition The book offers both a review and critique of current models of transition and then develops a new conceptual viewpoint based in the ideas of situated learning and transitions as becoming The second half of the book is dedicated to using this new theoretical perspective to illustrate how higher education professionals can create conditions to support students in transition more intentionally with a particular view toward supporting historically marginalized students including racially and ethnically minoritized students first generation students and post traditional students Teaching in the Block Michael D.
