Educational Psychology opens up the broad discipline of educational psychology to a wide and general audience. Written by experts in each area, the entries in this far-reaching resource provide an overview and an explanation of the major topics in the field of human development. While the Encyclopedia includes some technical topics related to educational psychology, for the most part it focuses on those topics that evoke the interest of the everyday reader. Key Features: Addresses topics that are of particular interest to the general public such as vouchers, Head Start, divorce, learning communities, and charter schools. Draws from a variety of disciplines including psychology, anthropology, education, sociology, public health, school psychology, counseling, history, and philosophy. Presents many different topics all tied together by the theme of how the individual can best function in an educational setting, from pre-school through adult education. Key Themes: Classroom Achievement, Classroom Management, Cognitive Development, Ethnicity, Race and Culture, Families, Gender, and Gender Development, Health and Well-Being, Human Development, Intelligence and Intellectual Development, Language Development, Learning and Memory, Organizations, Peers and Peer Influences, Public Policy, Research Methods and Statistics, Social Development, Teaching, Testing, Measurement and Evaluation, Theory. This practical Encyclopedia brings the field of educational psychology to the everyday person, making it a welcome addition to any academic or public library. Handbook of Reading Disability Research Anne McGill-Franzen, Richard Allington, 2010-09-17. Bringing together a wide range of research on reading disabilities, this comprehensive Handbook extends current discussion and thinking beyond a narrowly defined psychometric perspective. Emphasizing that learning to read proficiently is a long-term developmental process involving many interventions of various kinds, all keyed to individual developmental needs, it addresses traditional questions: What is the nature or causes of reading disabilities? How are reading disabilities assessed? How should reading disabilities be remediated? To what extent is remediation possible, but from multiple or alternative perspectives? Taking incursions into the broader research literature represented by linguistic and anthropological paradigms as well as psychological and educational research, the volume is on the front line in exploring the relation of reading disability to learning and language, to poverty and prejudice, and to instruction and schooling. The editors and authors are distinguished scholars with extensive research experience and publication records and numerous honors and awards from professional organizations, representing the range of disciplines in the field of reading disabilities. Throughout, their contributions are contextualized within the framework of educators struggling to develop concrete instructional practices that meet the learning needs of the lowest achieving readers.
