

Argument from Objective Beauty to an Absolute Mind:
Beginning with the objectivity of beauty, one may reason to an absolutely perfect Mind:

- 1. An absolutely perfect ideal of beauty exists (at least psychologically in our minds).
- 2. An absolutely perfect idea of beauty can exist only if there is an absolutely perfect Mind of beauty:
 - (a) Ideas can exist only if there are minds (thoughts depend on thinkers).
 - (b) And absolute ideas depend on an absolute Mind (not on individual [finite] minds like ours).
- 3. Hence, it is rationally necessary to postulate an absolute Mind as the basis for the absolutely perfect idea of beauty.

Bruno, or On the Natural and Divine Principle of Things F. W. J. Schelling, 1844 F W J Schelling has remained unknown to most contemporary scholars yet his thought is of great import to early 19th century philosophy and the study of German Idealism For the first time Michael G Vater makes Schelling's dialogue Bruno readily accessible to the English language reader while providing valuable commentary on the work itself which details Schelling's account of his differences from Fichte In an extensive introduction Vater discusses the background and significance of Schelling's identity philosophy and its impact on the development of Hegel's thought from 1802 to the publication of Hegel's Phenomenology Comprehensive notes point out Schelling's use of classic sources his dependence on Spinoza and the similarities in Schelling's and Hegel's points of view during their collaboration on the Critical Journal Through the value of its own arguments and its influence on Hegel Schelling's Bruno provides key material for the evolution on 19th century philosophy In Schelling's system Hegel found the construction of a harmonious whole in which his own basic conflicts and those of his generation found their solution Hegel's Difference and Schelling's Bruno announce a new programme and outline its foundations Philosophy must become metaphysical again and unify a world torn by the conflicting and one-sided ideologies of materialism and spiritualism
