'Enough to Keep Them Alive' Hugh E.Q. The Last Bastion of the Living Rhiannon Frater, 2012 The Bastion was humanity's last hope against the fearsome undead creatures known as the Inferi Scourge. A fortified city with a high wall surrounded by lush land rich with all the resources needed to survive, protected by high mountain summits and a massive gate to secure the only pass into the valley, the Bastion became the last stronghold of the living on earth. But one fateful day, the gate failed, and the Inferi Scourge destroyed the human settlements outside the walls and trapped the survivors inside the city. Now decades later, the last remaining humans are struggling to survive in a dying city as resources and hope dwindle.

Vanguard Maria Martinez has lived her whole life within the towering walls of steel. She yearns for a life away from the overcrowded streets, rolling blackouts, and food shortages, but there is no hope for anyone as long as the Inferi Scourge howls outside the high walls. Her only refuge from the daily grind is in the arms of her lover, Dwayne Reichardt, an officer in the Bastion Constabulary. Both are highly decorated veterans of the last disastrous push against the Inferi Scourge. Their secret affair is her only happiness. Then one day, Maria is summoned to meet with a mysterious representative from the Science Warfare Division and is offered the opportunity to finally destroy the Inferi Scourge in the valley and close the gate. The rewards of success are great, but she will have to sacrifice everything, possibly even her life, to accomplish the ultimate goal of securing the future of humanity and saving it from extinction.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to examine the effects of a 12-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of 10 sedentary, obese women. The women were randomly assigned to either a low-carbohydrate (LC) or a low-fat (LF) diet. The LC diet was composed of 15% carbohydrate, 65% fat, and 20% protein, while the LF diet was composed of 55% carbohydrate, 30% fat, and 15% protein. Both diets were designed to provide 1000 kcal less energy than the women's estimated maintenance requirements. The women were monitored for 12 weeks, and their body composition and physical fitness were measured at baseline and at the end of the study. The LC diet resulted in a greater loss of body weight and fat mass compared to the LF diet. The women on the LC diet also showed a greater improvement in physical fitness, including a decrease in body fat percentage and an increase in lean body mass. The results of this study suggest that a low-carbohydrate diet may be more effective than a low-fat diet for promoting weight loss and improving physical fitness in sedentary, obese women.
