Genres of Transition: Literature and Economy in Portuguese-Speaking Southern Africa Thomas Waller,2024-07-22 This book argues that literary production in Portuguese speaking southern Africa has developed distinctive aesthetic idioms that critically respond to crises of global capitalism and related failures of post colonial governance Drawing from recent research at the intersection of world systems analysis and materialist theories of world literature it identifies and evaluates two generic trends in the post independence literatures of Mozambique and Angola From the mid 1980s to the early 1990s there is a marked tendency in Mozambican literary production towards fictional representations of ghosts spectral effects and gothic narrative techniques In Angola there is an analogous outburst of literary expression from the mid 1990s onwards in which writers increasingly turn towards dystopian images of apocalypse ecological crisis and the disintegration of existing modes of social reproduction Away from a restricted focus on the decline of the post independence Marxist Leninist state the book contends that the upswing in these two genres of writing functions to critically register a world systemic horizon that both surpasses and includes locally determined national realities The patterned repetition of spectral and dystopian forms in Portuguese speaking southern Africa occurred at a time of heightened capitalisation in which the region was subjected to newly expropriative forms of accumulation and ecological enclosure via integration into a reconstellated world system headed by neoliberal finance capital Through close readings of texts by authors such as Mia Couto Suleiman Cassamo Ungulani Ba Ka Khosa Pepetela and Ondjaki this book asks What factors drove literary production towards the figure of the spectre in Mozambique and towards dystopia in Angola What emerging energies and social contradictions found shape in these generic idioms in ways that existing vocabularies were unable to express What does the geo temporal passage from spectrality to dystopia tell us about the history of capitalist development in southern Africa and about the restructuring of political economic parameters across the globe

The English-Speaking Alliance Ritchie Owendale,2024-11-01 As with appeasement myths and legends have proliferated about the origins of the Cold War. It has often been treated as largely a European affair with the responses to the Russian threat being led by the Americans. Before 1951 however the Cold War was almost global in scale extending across Europe and Asia penetrating the Middle East and Africa. It was the British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin who was the principal architect of the Western alliance formed to counter the perceived menace. Bevin organized Europe in preparation for the Marshall Plan, initiated the Western Union and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but his vision was wider. Like Neville Chamberlain in the late 1930s, Bevin outlined a plan for an English speaking defence alliance. The French were defeatist and it was politically impossible to propose reliance on Germany for defence. What was needed was a bond between Britain, the United States and the old white Dominions. First published in 1985, The English Speaking Alliance is the story of how the post war Labour governments sustained the image of Britain as a world power and laid the foundations of the West's Cold War foreign policy. It is told from sources in the British, American and Australian archives, some of which have been used for the first time. By laying bare the mechanics of the process of alliance building, Ritchie Ovendale offers many new insights which challenge the orthodox view of this crucial period of international politics. As such it will appeal to anyone with an interest in world politics and a desire to know more about how the current superpower regime developed.

Southern Literary Messenger, 1857 The Southern literary messenger, 1857 Southern and western literary messenger and review, 1857 Parliamentary Debates New Zealand. Parliament, 1952 Foundational Concepts of Decolonial and Southern Epistemologies Sinfree Makoni, Anna Kaiper-Marquez, Magda Madany-Saá, Bassey E. Antia, 2023-10-06. This book brings together 11 prominent scholars and political activists to discuss and explore issues around postcolonialism, decoloniality, Theories of the South and Epistemologies of the South. These wide ranging discussions touch upon issues from academic research methods and writing conventions to global struggles for justice. Together the chapters as well as the interventions from forum participants which are characteristic of this series paint a complex and dynamic picture of areas of thought and action that are constantly evolving in response to the demands of a world in flux. The book is a major intervention in current debates about the geopolitics of knowledge as well as an illustration of the ways in which scholarship in the Global North is indebted to the diverse traditions of scholarship in the Global South.
