Speaking La Parole:

Speaking (La Parole) Georges Gusdorf, 1965 Speaking is an introduction to the philosophy of language from an existential and phenomenological point of view Gusdorf's central concern is to analyze speech within the context of human reality Speech is an abstraction but speaking is not he says Speaking expresses the experimental and dialectical relation of man nature and society It is through speaking that nature is sublimated into the meant and expressive world of human reality

Speaking (La Parole). Tr. by Paul T. Brockelman Georges Gusdorf, 1965 Speaking-La Parole. Translated, with an Introduction, by Paul T. Brockelman Georges Gusdorf, Paul T. BROCKELMAN, 1965 Speaking (La Parole) Translated with an Introd., by Paul T. Brockelman Georges Gusdorf, The Practice of Language M. Gustafsson, L. Hertzberg, 2013-04-17 How is linguistic theory related to linguistic practice What do theoretical notions and models tell us about real life language use Are there any limits to what such notions and models can reasonably be taken to accomplish These questions are fundamental to any serious investigation into the phenomena of human communication The essays in this book show that philosophers and linguists of quite different brands have tended to give undue priority to their own favourite theoretical framework and have presupposed that the descriptive scheme invoked by that framework constitutes a pattern to which any linguistic practice somehow has to conform What unites the contributors to this volume is a critical attitude towards such essentialist aspirations By investigating several concrete examples of this tendency examples collected from such seemingly disparate areas as structuralism contemporary analytic philosophy and feminist epistemology the authors collectively manage to cast doubt on the very attempt to fit the whole of linguistic practice into a general theoretical mould The French speaker; or, An unerring guide to speaking the French language William Fenton, 1832 The French Speaker; Or, an Unerring Guide to Speaking the French Language, Etc W. Carlson, Elisabeth Weber, 2012-09-12 This collection explores torture from the array of approaches offered by the arts and humanities It contends that these disciplines advance the discussion and eradication of torture by speaking about it in terms cognizant of the assaults on truth memory subjectivity and language that the humanities theorize and that experience of torture perpetuates      Remaking Humanity Adam Beyt, 2024-08-22 Drawing upon Edward Schillebeeckx's theology and Judith Butler's philosophy Adam Beyt uses the framework of nonviolent hope to construct a Catholic political theology responding to dehumanizing violence Dehumanizing violence names words institutions or acts violating the inherent dignity of being made in the image and likeness of God Theology can participate in dehumanizing violence by claiming an uninterrogated universality that marginalizes bodies due to their perceived differences such as gender race sexuality or ability The book's constructive project integrates Schillebeeckx's and Butler's thought with queer theory and phenomenology to model embodiment as an enfleshing dynamism between bodies and signification The text then posits Catholic discipleship as incarnating hope by defending the humanum the new humanity announced through God's Reign Combining reflections from Schillebeeckx and Butler this hope centers discipleship as nonviolent world building Concluding with a sustained reflection with the writings of Franz Fanon and Walter Benjamin the final chapter sketches a Catholic solidaristic response to contemporary struggles against the necropolitics of colonizing and state violence through assemblies of hope      The voice and public speaking John Poole Sandlands, 1879      Psychology and Experience Benjamin Bradley, 2005-09 A thought provoking study which evaluates the contrasting methods and philosophies of contemporary psychology      An Existential Phenomenology of Law: Maurice Merleau-Ponty William S. Hamrick, 2013-03-09 The following pages attempt to develop the main outlines of an existential phenomenology of law within the context of Maurice Merleau-Ponty's phenomenology of the social world In so doing the essay addresses the rather narrow scholarly question If Merleau-Ponty had written a phenomenology of law what would it have looked like But this scholarly enterprise although impeccable in itself is also transcended by a more complicated concern for a very different sort of question Namely if Merleau-Ponty's phenomenological descriptions of the social world are correct as I believe they largely are then what are the philosophical consequences for an adequate understanding of law Such a project may well occasion a certain surprise amongst observers of the contemporary philosophical landscape at least in what concerns the terrain of continental thought and for two different reasons The first is that although interest in Merleau-Ponty's work remains strong in the United States and Canada his philosophical standing in his own country has been largely eclipsed by that of first his friend estranged acquaintance Jean Paul Sartre by various Marxist philosophies and critical social theories and finally by those doing her meneutics of language In my view current neglect of Merleau-Ponty's thought in France is most regrettable      The Anticolonial Linguistics of Nikolai Marr Matthew Carson Allen, Robert Young, 2024-11-08 The archaeologist philologist and Linguistics theoretician Nikolai Marr 1865-1934 has attracted increasing scholarly attention as a pivotal figure of late tsarist and early Soviet cultural politics and as an early anticolonial theorist He remains however an elusive thinker who is much written about but seldom read This volume offers a representative selection of Marr's writing from several stages of his life translated here for the first time into English The selection of texts allows the reader to trace the key evolving and interconnected preoccupations that animate Marr s vast oeuvre his anti nationalist valorization of the cultural and linguistic hybridity of the Caucasus his denunciation of the imperialist complicity of Western European comparative linguistics his anti Darwinian emphasis on mixture and convergence in place of filial descent within the history of languages and his unorthodox theories of linguistic origins in gesture rather than speech Key Marrist terms such as Japhetidology or the rejection of the prevalent theory of an Indo European language family are clarified The volume contains original essays that contextualize Marr s work within the history of linguistics showing the indebtedness and applicability of his ideas to traditions that are frequently held to be unrelated to one another Russian proto structuralism French deconstruction and Indian subaltern thought This book was originally published as a special issue of Interventions International Journal of Postcolonial Studies
