Transforming Preschool Storytime Betsy Diamant-Cohen, Melanie A. Hetrick, 2013-06-18 According to recent research the best way to make new connections in a child's brain is by building on something already known. A child who loves a book will listen to it repeatedly maintaining interest. Using a selected book in a number of consecutive preschool storytimes but presenting it differently each time can help children learn new skill sets. This book presents a new approach to storytime one that employs repetition with variety to create an experience which helps children connect and engage with the story on a higher level. Diamant-Cohen recently awarded the 2013 ASCLA Leadership and Professional Achievement Award and Hetrick offer a year's worth of activities specifically designed to address multiple intelligences through a repetition-based process. Incorporating recent theories on developmental learning this book includes Scripts for 8 different books with enough activities to repeat each one for six weeks along with lists of optional alternative books. Planning aids such as outlines of storytime sessions a fill in the blanks planning sheet questions for evaluation and tips for enhanced storytimes using props and crafts. Detailed but straightforward explanations of theory and research that will help readers communicate effectively with parents caregivers and other stakeholders. From setup to execution here's everything you need to create and implement a successful elevated storytime.

Mark Kingwell,Patrick Turmel,2009-09-08 There are many ways to approach the subject of public space the threats posed to it by surveillance and visual pollution the joys it offers of stimulation and excitement of anonymity and transformation its importance to urban variety or democratic politics But public space remains an evanescent and multidimensional concept that too often escapes scrutiny The essays in Rites of Way The Politics and Poetics of Public Space open up multiple dimensions of the concept from architectural political philosophical and technological points of view There is some historical analysis here but the contributors are more focused on the future of public space under conditions of growing urbanization and democratic confusion The added interest offered by non academic work visual art fiction poetry and drama is in part an admission that this is a topic too important to be left only to theorists It also makes an implicit argument for the crucial role that art not just public art plays in a thriving public realm Throughout this work contributors are guided by the conviction not pious but steely that healthy public space is one of the best living parts of a just society The paths of desire we follow in public trace and speak our convictions and needs our interests and foibles They are the vectors and walkways of the social the public dimension of life lying at the heart of all politics
