Spending Time With Blue:

Spending Time Daniel S. Hamermesh, 2019-02-01 Time is the ultimate scarce resource and thus quintessentially a topic for economics which studies scarcity Starting with the observation that time is increasingly valuable given competing demands as we have more things we can buy and do Spending Time provides engaging insights into how people use their time and what determines their decisions about spending their time That our time is limited by the number of hours in a day days in a year and years in our lives means that we face constraints and thus choices that involve trade offs We sleep eat have fun watch TV and not least we work How much we dedicate to each and why we do so is intriguing and no one is better placed to shed light on similarities and differences than Daniel S Hamermesh the leading authority on time use Here he explores how people use their time including across countries regions cultures class and gender Americans now work more than people in other rich countries but as recently as the late 1970s they worked no more than others and they also work longer into older age Men and women do different things at different times of the day which affects how well off they feel Both the arrival of children and retirement create major shocks to existing time uses with differences between the sexes Higher incomes and higher wage rates lead people to hurry more both on and off the job and higher wage rates lead people to cut back on activities that take time away from work Being stressed for time is central to modern life and Hamermesh shows who is rushed and why With Americans working more than people in France Germany the U K Japan and other rich countries the book offers a simple but radical proposal for changing Americans lives and reducing the stress about time

Summers at Blue Lake Jill Althouse-Wood,2013-11-22 She thought that her family was an open book without secrets Even as a child Barbara Jean Ellington knew her grandmothers were lesbians a truth they never concealed During BJ s summer vacations at their home on Blue Lake Nonna and Lena taught her to swim and play cards provided a lively contrast to BJ s conservative parents and comforted BJ when her first summer romance ended abruptly and without reason Now years later BJ seeks refuge in her late grandmothers house in the wake of her husband's affair. As she relives the languid summer days of her youth and prepares the house for sale, she struggles to come to terms not only with the looming threat of divorce but also with the Pandora's Box of family revelations she uncovers in Nonna's hidden notebooks. In them, she discovers a fifty-year family history littered with secrets from the past, secrets that have present-day consequences for herself, her marriage, and for Travis, the boy who broke her heart during that long ago summer. With discerning prose and compelling characters, Summers at Blue Lake follows in the tradition of bestselling authors such as Anita Shreve, Elizabeth Berg, and Sue Miller. PRAISE: In Althouse Wood's engaging novel, she alternates between past and present, gives BJ a fresh, honest voice, and beautifully develops the relationship between the grandmothers, Carolyn and Kubisz. Booklist: An engaging character study that alternates between the past and present, Summers at Blue Lake investigates how the actions of one generation can have consequences many decades later. Robert Francis Aptos, Times: The author skillfully builds suspense. Characterization is exceptional. Spikes of humor, brilliant descriptive passages, all contribute to a memorable, thought-provoking novel. Barbara Johnson, Voya book reviews. Blue Wall of Silence Olivia N.

Johnson, 2010-04-26. Suicide has been declared an epidemic, and rates of suicide increase within occupational subcultures experiencing increased levels of stress and trauma, such as law enforcement. Explored in the qualitative phenomenological study were the lived experiences of White male law enforcement officers concerning perceptions of care by administrators and peers, and the influence of mental health training in the incidence of officer suicide. The study population was chosen because of the resemblance to the segment of the general population deemed at risk for suicide. Officers provided perceptions of care in dealing with difficult situations, police culture, police training, and police suicide. Interviews allowed officers to reveal perceptions and beliefs about the affects of training on perceptions of care and on the incidence of officer suicide. Officer interviews revealed five major themes and two minor themes. Major themes included stress, stress relief, trust, loyalty, training, and change. Minor themes included generational issues and organizational administration. The largest stressor for the study population included crimes and incidents against children. The results of the study can help further educate administrators and officers about the emotional dangers facing law enforcement officers and the importance of organizational administration in assisting officers in acknowledging and overcoming issues concerning mental health.

Blue Space, Health and Wellbeing Ronan Foley, Robin Kearns, Thomas Kistemann, Ben Wheeler, 2019-02-06. Health geography makes critical contributions to contemporary and emerging interdisciplinary agendas of nature-based health and health-enabling places. Couched in theory and critical empirical work on nature and health, this book addresses questions on the relationships between water, health, and wellbeing. Water and blue space is a key focus in current health geography research, and a new hydrophilic turn has emerged with a particular focus on the aspects of water which are affective, life-enhancing, and health-enabling. Research considers the benefits and risks associated with blue space, from access to safe and clean water in the Global South to health-promoting spaces found around urban waters to the deeper implications of climate change for water based livelihoods and indigenous cultures This book reflects recent theoretical debates within health geography drawing from research in the public health anthropology and psychology sectors Broad thematic sections focus on interdisciplinary experiential and equity based elements of blue space with individual chapters that consider indigenous and global health water s healing properties leisure and blue yogic culture coastal landscapes surfing swimming and sailing along with more contested hydrophobic dimensions The interdisciplinary lens means this book will be extremely valuable to human geographers and cultural geographers It will also appeal to practitioners and researchers interested in environmental health leisure and tourism health inequalities and public health more broadly
