Care for Patients Directly

Certified Medical Interpreter

A bilingual or multilingual person with the appropriate training to provide real-time translations between healthcare professionals and patients or their family members in person, over the phone or via video for complicated communications.

Medical interpreters are the gold standard in language services as they are expected to operate in any medical situation including high risk and sensitive scenarios.

- Fluency in English and an additional applicable language
- Complete medical interpreter training
- Pass medical interpreter certification exam

Only two nationally recognized certifying bodies (NBCMI & CCHI). Must complete training, eligibility requirements, and medical interpreter exam.

Qualified Bilingual Staff (QBS)

A medical staff member who can communicate directly with patients and families with limited English proficiency for basic patient-clinician communications that don't require a medical interpreter.

In the absence of an interpreter, QBS care for patients directly through specialized medical language training that aligns with the provisions in the Affordable Care Act Section 1557.

- Healthcare staff member
- Fluency in English and an additional applicable language
- Pass Qualified Bilingual Staff assessment

Each institution can decide how to certify and deploy QBS to best fill language access gaps.
