Subjects in English Peter Uhrig,2018-06-11 The purpose of the book is twofold First it tries to give a descriptive account of subjects in English The second aim is to elucidate the status of the subject both as a concept in grammatical theory and with regard to the question whether the subject is determined by item specific arbitrary formal restrictions in the same way as postverbal complements of the verb have been shown to be The Difference Satire Makes Fredric V. Bogel,2012-04-20 Offering both the first major revision of satiric rhetoric in decades and a critical account of the modern history of satire criticism Fredric V Bogel maintains that the central structure of the satiric mode has been misunderstood Devoting attention to Augustan satiric texts and other examples of satire from writings by Ben Jonson and Lord Byron to recent performance art Bogel finds a complicated interaction between identification and distance intimacy and repudiation Drawing on anthropological insights and the writings of Kenneth Burke Bogel articulates a rigorous richly developed theory of satire While accepting the view that the mode is built on the tension between satirist and satiric object he asserts that an equally crucial relationship between the two is that of intimacy and identification satire does not merely register a difference and proceed to attack in light of that difference Rather it must establish or produce difference The book provides fresh analyses of eighteenth century texts by Jonathan Swift John Gay Alexander Pope Henry Fielding and others Bogel believes that the obsessive play between identification and distance and the fascination with imitation parody and mimicry which mark eighteenth century satire are part of a larger cultural phenomenon in the Augustan era a questioning of the very status of the category and of categorical distinctness and opposition The Nature of Syntactic Representation Pauline Jacobson,G.K. Pullum,2012-12-06 The work collected in this book represents the results of some intensive recent work on the syntax of natural languages The authors differing viewpoints have in common the program of revising current conceptions of syntactic representation so that the role of transformational derivations is reduced or eliminated The fact that the papers cross refer to each other a good deal and that authors assuming quite different fram works are aware of each other s results and address themselves to shared problems is partly the result of a conference on the nature of syntactic representation that was held at Brown University in May 1979 with the express purpose of bringing together different lines of research in syntax The papers in this volume mostly arise out of work that was presented in preliminary form at that conference though much rewriting and further research has been done in the interim period Two papers are included because although they were not given even in preliminary form at the conference it has become clear since then that they interrelate with the work of the conference so much that they cannot reasonably be left out Gerald Gazdar s statement of his program for phrase structure description of natural language forms the theoretical basis that is assumed by Maling and Zaenen and by Sag and David Dowty s paper represents a bridge between the relational grammar exemplified here in the papers by Perlmutter and Postal
