Dismantlings Matt Tierney, 2019-12-15 For the master's tools the poet Audre Lorde wrote will never dismantle the master's house Dismantlings is a study of literary political and philosophical critiques of the utopian claims about technology in the Long Seventies the decade and a half before 1980 Following Alice Hilton's 1963 admonition that the coming years would bring humanity to a crossroads machines for HUMAN BEINGS or human beings for THE MACHINE Matt Tierney explores wide ranging ideas from science fiction avant garde literatures feminist and anti racist activism and indigenous eco philosophy that may yet challenge machines of war control and oppression Dismantlings opposes the language of technological idealism with radical thought of the Long Seventies from Lorde and Hilton to Samuel R Delany and Ursula K Le Guin to Huey P Newton John Mohawk and many others This counter lexicon retrieves seven terms for the contemporary critique of technology Luddism a verbal and material combat against exploitative machines communion a kind of togetherness that stands apart from communication networks cyberculture a historical conjunction of automation with racist and militarist machines distortion a transformative mode of reading and writing revolutionary suicide a willful submission to the risk of political engagement liberation technology a synthesis of appropriate technology and liberation theology and thanatopography a mapping of planetary technological ethics after Auschwitz and Hiroshima Dismantlings restores revolutionary language of the radical Long Seventies for reuse in the digital present against emergent technologies of exploitation subjugation and death

Facing Up to the American Dream Jennifer L. Hochschild, 1996-08-25 Hochschild combines survey data and vivid anecdote to clarify several paradoxes Since the 1960s white Americans have seen African Americans as having better and better chances to achieve the dream At the same time middle class blacks by now one third of the African American population have become increasingly frustrated personally and anxious about the progress of their race Most poor blacks however cling with astonishing strength to the notion that they and their families can succeed despite their terrible perhaps worsening living conditions Meanwhile a tiny number of the estranged poor who have completely given up on the American dream or any other faith threaten the social fabric of the black community and the very lives of their fellow blacks Will the still optimistic majority of poor African Americans eventually follow the alienated minority into neighborhood and even society wide destruction Does the new black middle class vindicate the American dream or does the frustration of its members make apparent the limits of a vision never intended to include African Americans Hochschild probes these questions and gives them historical depth by comparing the experience of today's African Americans to that of white ethnic immigrants at the turn of the century She concludes by claiming that America's only alternative to the social disaster of intensified racial conflict lies in the inclusiveness optimism discipline and high mindedness of the American dream at its best
