

Successful Ageing

Dr. Alan D. Castel

Successful Ageing:

Successful Ageing Robert Gingold,1992 Elderly people as well as the middle aged have been the victims of the youth culture as negative stereotypes about aging have been popularized This book seeks to dispel these myths which equate aging with disease and disablement It is never too late to adopt a healthy lifestyle in order to remain mentally alert and physically vital This helpful guide outlines preventative measures which promote good health These include attention to a nutritionally based diet moderate exercise and methods to achieve emotional tranquility The book contains up to date information on the prevention of heart disease cancer dementia and many other common disorders It also provides strategies for overcoming the psychological challenges caused by retirement and bereavement Successful Ageing Clemens

Tesch-Römer,Hans-Werner Wahl,Suresh I. S. Rattan,Liat Ayalon,2022 This book argues that a narrow policy on successful ageing excludes a large portion of ageing individuals from the quest for a good life in old age It explores various models defining successful ageing and argues that successful ageing in guiding policy will profit by following a pluralistic and holistic view Successful Aging John Wallis Rowe,Robert L. Kahn,1998 The results of the MacArthur Foundation Study of

Aging in America which show how to maintain optimum physical and mental strength throughout later life Jacket Better with Age Dr. Alan D. Castel,2018-08-01 Age is an important number but it can also be deceiving After 40 most people say they feel younger than their years some lie about their age and many attempt to hide the signs of growing old Better with Age addresses the many myths and paradoxes about the aging process Although most people think of their later years in terms of decline they can be one of the best times in life This book presents the latest scientific research about the psychology of aging coupled with insights from those who have succeeded in doing it well such as Maya Angelou Bob Newhart Jared Diamond John Glenn and John Wooden We are all aging and many people are concerned about what to expect with advancing years Retirement happiness and brain health are some of the many topics covered in this book Better with Age shows what we can do now at any stage in life to make sure we enjoy old age Beyond Successful and Active Ageing

Virpi Timonen,2016-04-29 This controversial book argues that concepts such as successful and active ageing ubiquitous terms in research marketing and policy making concerned with older adults are potentially dangerous paradigms that reflect and exacerbate inequalities in older populations This author presents a new theory to make sense of the popularity of these successful and active ageing concepts Readers are invited to view them through the prism of Model Ageing a theory that throws light on the causes and consequences of attempts to model ageing as a phenomenon and stage of life that is in need of direction reshaping and control This is essential reading for anyone seeking to make sense of social constructions of ageing in contemporary societies Successful Aging Paul Boris Baltes,Margret M. Baltes,1993-05-28 More and more people live into old age This demographic revolution underscores the fact that old age is the last uncharted and unattended phase of the life cycle Successful Ageing Patricia McCann Mortimer,2010 Current mainstream models of successful ageing have received criticism in the literature especially Rowe and Kahn's 1987 model the most widely accepted theory of successful ageing in gerontology A key aim for the present study is to challenge the key mainstream theories of successful ageing This thesis asks whether the dominant perspectives on successful ageing can be challenged by directly consulting older women about how they see the roles of religion and spirituality in ageing well and by unpacking specific problems identified in the literature Criticisms include the lack of consultation with older people by successful ageing researchers A second issue is the negative way that the last phase of life or Fourth Age Laslett 1989 is represented in successful ageing theories and also in the field of gerontology and society generally The leading models of successful ageing from Rowe and Kahn and Baltes and Baltes 1990 postulate that successful ageing is contingent on certain capacities and that successful ageing comes to an end when health and good functioning or the capacity to employ adaptive strategies fails Hence life in very old age is represented as a picture of loss and decline with no positive prospects A third criticism relates to the lack of inclusion of religious and spiritual affiliations which may be important resources for psychological spiritual and existential well being particularly during the final phase of life This issue is investigated with participants identified as both spiritual and religious SR and as spiritual only and not religious SO Some researchers have argued that women do not age as well as men and that older women are usually less financially well off and in poorer health than their male counterparts across all levels of socioeconomic status Greene 2003 Smith Baltes 1998 The views of women were sought in order to contribute to balancing the gender scales of ageing well The focus in this research is on the views of women who are in midlife or older on successful ageing The research design of mixed models used qualitative data derived from focus groups and in depth individual interviews supplemented by quantitative data gained from surveys Three broad central themes encompassing participants views on successful ageing were identified Most participants viewed life as a journey of growth and development and for some this extended beyond poor health and functioning Autonomy was valued by most participants Relationships were also important and nearly all participants gained much personal satisfaction from generative activities consistent with the literature Some participants provided examples of successful ageing occurring in the final stages of life or Fourth Age Laslett 1989 A number regarded the current options for frail aged accommodation and end of life care with fear and dread These findings point to the need for researchers and policy makers to listen carefully to the voices of ageing people Based on participants comments there is a need for informed and tailored changes to be made in policy planning physical accommodation options and crucially to the training of those who work with older people The development of more positive whole of life theories of successful ageing is urgently required in order to counterbalance the dominant negative perspectives on the final phase of life

Successful Aging Sheung-Tak Cheng, Iris Chi, Helene H. Fung, Lydia W. Li, Jean Woo, 2015-01-26 This book brings together state of the art research on successful aging in Asian populations and highlights how the factors that contribute to successful aging differ from those in the West It examines the differences between the Asian and Western contexts in which the aging process unfolds including cultural values lifestyles physical environments and family structures In addition it examines the question of how to add quality to longer years of life Specifically it looks at ways to promote health preserve cognition maximize functioning with social support and maintain emotional well being despite inevitable declines and losses Compared to other parts of the world Asia will age more quickly as a result of the rapid socioeconomic developments leading to rising longevity and historically low fertility rates in some countries These demographic forces in vast populations such as China are expected to make Asia the main driver of global aging in the coming decades As a result researchers professionals policymakers as well as the commercial sector in both East and West are increasingly interested in gaining a deeper understanding of aging in Asia

Successful Aging as a Contemporary Obsession Sarah

Lamb,2017-05-22 In recent decades the North American public has pursued an inspirational vision of successful aging striving through medical technique and individual effort to eradicate the declines vulnerabilities and dependencies previously commonly associated with old age On the face of it this bold new vision of successful healthy and active aging is highly appealing But it also rests on a deep cultural discomfort with aging and being old The contributors to Successful Aging as a Contemporary Obsession explore how the successful aging movement is playing out across five continents Their chapters investigate a variety of people including Catholic nuns in the United States Hindu ashram dwellers older American women seeking plastic surgery aging African American lesbians and gay men in the District of Columbia Chicago home health care workers and their aging clients Mexican men foregoing Viagra dementia and Alzheimer sufferers in the United States and Brazil and aging policies in Denmark Poland India China Japan and Uganda This book offers a fresh look at a major cultural and public health movement of our time questioning what has become for many a taken for granted goal aging in a way that almost denies aging itself

The Science of Well-being Felicia A. Huppert,Nick Baylis,Barry Keverne,2005

How much do we know about what makes people thrive and societies flourish While a vast body of research has been dedicated to understanding problems and disorders we know remarkably little about the positive aspects of life the things that make life worth living This landmark volume heralds the emergence of a new field of science that endeavours to understand how individuals and societies thrive and flourish and how this new knowledge can be applied to foster happiness health and fulfillment and institutions that encourage the development of these qualities Taking a dynamic cross disciplinary approach it sets out to explore the most promising routes to well being derived from the latest research in psychology neuroscience social science economics and the effects of our natural environment Designed for a general readership this volume is of compelling interest to all those in the social behavioural and biomedical sciences the caring professions and policy makers It provides a stimulating overview for any reader with a serious interest in the latest insights and strategies for enhancing our individual well being or the well being of the communities in which we live and work
