Substitute Fuels For Road Transport A Technology Assessment:

Substitute Fuels for Road Transport International Energy Agency, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1990 An assessment of such possible fuels as natural gas alcohol and those derived from heavy oils from the perspectives of availability economics technical problems and environmental impact Good bibliography No index Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Alternative Transportation Fuels Michelle Heath, Canadian Energy Research Institute, 1991 In early 1990 a study was undertaken to examine and compare the usefulness of natural gas propane methanol and ethanol in relation to gasoline and diesel fuel for potential use in the transportation industry The study evaluated the potential environmental and economic benefits of each of the fuels examined including the characteristics of each alternative fuel the current and proposed regulations and emission requirements for the vehicle fleet the use of alternate fuels internationally and conversion scenarios for each fuel Alternative Fuels for Road Vehicles Mark L. Poulton, 1994 The many alternative fuels that have been reviewed in this book are likely to be of great interest to a broad readership not only to mechanical petrochemical and transportation engineers but anyone with a technical association with the subject The book covers fuels for the motor vehicle and how they may develop and change in the future Prospects for conventional petrol and diesel fuels are discussed including their reformulation as well as synthetic fuels vegetable oils and other biofuels alcohols gases LPG natural gas and hydrogen and electricity This book has been published as a consequence of a programme of study commissioned by the Chief Mechanical Engineer's Office at the UK Department of Transport into the contribution of the road vehicle to global warming A programme of research was placed with the Environment Centre of the Transport Research Laboratory and one of the individual projects was to investigate the future prospects for conventional and alternative fuels for road vehicles Implications for the energy and emissions from the whole fuel cycle from production to distribution and final usage were considered but more importantly the vehicular fuel consumption and consequent carbon dioxide emissions and exhaust emission characteristics were the primary focus of attention The structure of this book is such that each chapter describes a particular alternative fuel and is completely self contained The reader will be able to cover a particular subject that is of interest without having to refer to other chapters to gain a full understanding of the fuel's characteristics notable developments and demonstration programmes underway worldwide One chapter chapter 10 does provide an overview and inter comparison of all the fuels discussed including point of use and life cycle emissions global warming impacts fuel storage implications and likely costs Future advances in conventional engines and the development of alternative power units are discussed in the companion volume to this book Alternative Engines for Road Vehicles The future prospects for a range of engines including conventional petrol and diesel fuelled units covering technologies such as two stroke lean burn and stratified charge the rotary engine gas turbine Stirling Rankine steam engine and hybrids are assessed for their potential to reduce vehicle emissions and improve fuel economy Other less well known concepts such as catalytic combustion the Quadratic beam engine stepped piston and other engine efficiency techniques are also reviewed Book Jacket

Clean Fuels for Asia Michael Walsh, Jitendra J. Shah, 1997-01-01 Gasoline alternative fuels Handbook on Bioethanol Charles Wyman, 2018-05-02 Bioethanol is a versatile transportation fuel and fuel additive that offers excellent performance and reduced air pollution compared to conventional fuels Its production and use adds little if any net release of carbon dioxide to the atmosphere dramatically reducing the potential for global climate change Through a sustained research program and an emerging economic competitiveness the technology for bioethanol production is poised for immediate widespread commercial applications Written by engineers and scientists providing a technical focus this handbook provides the up to date information needed by managers engineers and scientists to evaluate the technology market and economics of this fuel while examining the development of production required to support its commercial use Non-CO₂ Greenhouse Gases: Why and How to Control? J. van Ham, L.J.H.M. Janssen, Rob J. Swart, 2012-12-06 The background This volume contains the proceedings of the first International symposium on Non CO Greenhouse Gases Why and How to Control held in Maastricht The Netherlands from 13 15 Decem ber 1993 Of the known greenhouse gases political attention to date has been primarily focused on carbon dioxide CO and the 2 CFCs the latter because of their interaction with stratospheric ozone The other greenhouse gases notably methane CH nitrous 4 oxide N O HCFCs HFCs and tropospheric ozone and its precur 2 sors nitrogen oxides NO carbon monoxide CO and volatile organic compounds VOCs may appear collectively to be of equal importance for global warming but have attracted less attention Nevertheless a comprehensive approach to climate change respon se taking into account all sources and sinks of all greenhouse gases is explicitly allowed in the Framework Convention on Clima te Change The Netherlands policy on climate already addresses all greenhouse gases In order to stimulate the development of international climate policy on this subject the Dutch Ministry of Housing Physical Planning and Environment supported the initiative of organizing an international symposium on the science and policy of the non CO greenhouse gases An important rationale behind 2 this initiative was recognizing that for the non CO greenhouse 2 gases abatement options are available that do not only address other environmental problems but that also do not require the major structural changes in society that an effective CO policy 2 may Air Pollution from Motor Vehicles Asif Faiz, Christopher S. Weaver, Michael P. Walsh, 1996-01-01 Contributions by Surhid Gautam and Lit Mian Chan This book presents a state of the art review of vehicle emission standards and regulations and provides a synthesis of worldwide experience with vehicle emission control technologies and their applications in both industrial and developing countries Topics covered include The two principal international systems of vehicle emission standards those of North America and Europe Test procedures used to verify compliance with emissions standards and to estimate actual emissions Engine and aftertreatment technologies that have been developed to enable new vehicles to comply with emission standards as well as the cost and other impacts of these technologies An evaluation of measures for controlling emissions from in use vehicles The role of fuels in reducing vehicle emissions the benefits that could be gained by reformulating conventional gasoline and diesel fuels the potential benefits of alternative cleaner fuels and the prospects for using hydrogen and electric power to run motor vehicles with ultra low or zero emissions This book is the first in a series of publications on vehicle related pollution and control measures prepared by the World Bank in collaboration with the United Nations Environment Programme to underpin the Bank s overall objective of promoting transport that is environmentally sustainable and least damaging to human health and welfare Activities of the Conference: Resolutions of the Council of Ministers of Transport and Reports Approved in 1990 Thirty-Seventh Annual Report European Conference of Ministers of Transport,1991-02-01 This book includes a description of the activities of ECMT and information trends in transport in europe in 1990 along with texts of all resolutions and report approved during that period Automotive Air Pollution ,1990 Automotive air pollution will intensify with increasing urbanization and the rapid pace of motorization in developing countries Without effective measures to curb air pollution some 300 400 million city dwellers in developing countries will become exposed to unhealthy and dangerous levels of air pollution by the end of the century Administratively simple policies that encourage clean fuels and better traffic management are the most promising approach to controlling vehicle pollutant emissions in developing countries Environmental Health and Toxicology Kathryn S.
